What is Virtual Care?

Virtual care refers to the use of digital technologies and communication tools to provide healthcare services remotely.

It allows clients to access medical care and consultation without physically visiting a healthcare facility.

Virtual care includes a range of services, including telemedicine, telehealth, and other remote healthcare delivery methods and systems.

Virtual Care can offer several advantages, such as increased accessibility, convenience, and the potential for more timely interventions.

It's important to note that virtual care may not be suitable for all types of medical conditions, and in-person visits are still necessary for certain examinations and treatments.
